Excerpt: .required for the mission, in connexion with which an interesting incident is worth recording. Jan. 3, 1813. Upon a letter being read from Sir Henry Charles Englefield to Lord Dundas as well as another from the same to the President of the day Mr. Dickenson expressing that he had received from Mr. Gell some time since a draft for between nine hundred and a thousand pounds and being at that time in the country and not being certain of the amount of the balance of the money belonging to the Society in the Bankers hands he had paid this draft from his own pocket. The whole Society appeared extremely sensible of the handsome proceeding on his part and Lord Morpeth immediately got up and moved that the thanks of the Society be given to Sir Henry Charles Englefield our Secretary for his liberal conduct, which motion being seconded by Mr. William Spencer was carried unanimously and with applause. A vote of the further credit of iooo was moved and carried. It was also ordered that the first payment from that sum should be employed in repaying Sir H. C. Englefield the sum he had so liberally and kindly advanced. The first instalment of drawings and measurements sent home by Mr. Gell, comprising the antiquities of Eleusis, was put in hand for engraving at once. The travellers returned in the summer of 1813; and Return of the Dilettanti at their next meeting, on February 6,...
